U.S. hopes Habib trip will soften Arafat

LISRARY

By WOLF BLITZER Jerusalem Post Correspondent

WASHINGTON. - Top State Department officials regard apacial U.S. envoy Philip Hahlh's current Middle East mission on Lebanon as a possible prelude toward moderating the Palestine Liberation Organization's position on terrorism and Israel's right to exist.

During private briefings for selected members of Congress, these officials heve candidly held out tho hope that Hahfh's Lehanesa in-Itiative could have the important hyproduct of leading to a dialogue hetween Washington and Yasser Arafat's PLO. Despite the sethack suffered by the Administration in August when it tried to win Israeli and Egyptian approval for a new UN resolution recognizing Palestinian rights, key State Department officials are still trying to find a new formula to open talks with the PLO.

Theoe officials still seem convinced that the Palastinian autonomy negotiations are likely to fail unless the PLO can be convinced to give its West Bank and Gaza supporters a green light to participate.

U.S. strategy, according to reliable sources here, is to sea if Hahlh can achieve a stable ceasefire in southern Lehanon involving a PLO commitment to renounce the use of terrorism from their hases in the region.

In accordance with long-standing U.S. pollcy, Habib has not been authorized to meet directly with PLO membera. Instead, he has been using Lehanese, Syrian and other third-party intermediaries to determine the PLO stance.

These U.S. officials. already believe that the PLO "in effect" accepted UN Security Council Resolutions 243 and 338 when It signalled its willingness to support a new UN reaclution in August recognizing Palestinian rights.

State Department officials were encouraged by the PLO attitude toward that resolution as well as by other private PLO "signals" that it was about to meet Washington's long-standing minimal conditions for. recognition.

These officials, for instance, have been pleased that - they say - the PLO leadership no longer speaks publicly about a ao-callad "democratic, accular state of Palestine." This "shift" suggests to these officials that the PLO is no

The number of soldiers deserting from military ecrvice has been growing since 1973. This was revealed yesterday by Tat-Aluf Baruch Arbcl, the commander of the military police who was briefing military reporters in Tel Aviv to merk Military Police Day this week.

Arbel noted that avoidance of military service was becoming more acceptable among certain sections of the population. He mentioned in particular people whose parents had been excused from military service because of absorption problems and who did not provide their children with any positive incentive in this direction.

Among the deserters there are also a significant number of foreign volunteers from countries such as South Africa, England and Canada, who desert during their service and leave the country oo their foreign passports.

The number of soldiers who go absent without leave for ehort periods is about 15,000, he noted. Referring to the military prisons, Arbel mentioned that the past two years had eeen a disturhing upswing in the number of women soldiers Imprisoned. Last year's total was nearly 1,000. He attributed the increase, in part, to the fact thai the army was being forced to draft women whom it would normally turn down because many others wers exempted on daclaring themselves observant.

In all, there are some 1,500 soldiers in military prisons cach year, serving terms of up to 1g months. (Soldiers who are centenced to longer terms of imprisonment are usually transferred. to the civilian jails.) This does not include soldiers who are held in regimental or command detention harracks.

While the military police cannot say definitely that the use of drugs in the army and the military prisons has declloed, the number of arrests for drug offences has increased. Generally, the drugs involved are "soft" and the army is almost entirsly free of drug trafficking or drug addiction.

A large part of military police resources is devoted to combating road accidents. Road deaths kill some 100 soldiers every year, although not all of these accidents involve army vehicles. The figure is proportionally higher than in the civilian sector, and Arbel emphasized that the relative inexperiance of the young army drivers was part of the explanation.

The military police will chorily add ad-ditional motorbikes to those it already has in esrvice, and will form the largest motorcycle patrol force in the country. The army also hires civilian cars to conduct traffic campaigns. Coupled with radar traps, spot checks, epeedy judgments and relatively eevere penalties (such as impounding the vehicle for a week), these are fairly sffective deterrents.

Referring to the recent case in which soldiers allegedly stols weapons from an Ordnance Corps store in the Sinai and sold them to Arab arms dealers in the Wadi Ara region. Arbei disclosed that in the past two years there have been about 10 similar casee.

Charges were brought yesterday against the five reserviets involved in the latest episode. The investigative arm of the military police is also checking whether there was any negligence on the part of officers in command of the base at the timo.

Arbel stressed that in view of the tremendous number of weapons in the country and the recent policy of the chief of staff to encourage soldiers to carry weapons at all times, the theft of arms and ammunition was not totally unexpected aithough this did not diminish the seriousness, with which the army regards the offence.

Almost one weapon a day is lost by soldiers in training or other circumstances, he said." "The army-is like the society from which it is drawn." be said. Consequently there is a new phenomenon of extortion and intimidation almed at warders in military prisons or regimental sergeant-majors responsible for discipline.

Arbel warned that energetic steps should be taken by the defance establishment to stamp out fraud and other financial and property crimee now that the army has begun its redeployment in the Negev. He recalled that after the 1967 war many people had been attracted by the opportunity to make "easy money."

Gnstav Badian (Likud-Liberals): The entire Planning and Building Law should be revised, making it more lenlent with respect to Insignificant additions to a building, and making serious violations punisbable by jall terms as soon as the lilegal construction begins, and not years later.

Sparks ars sure to fly in the Knesset thie afternoon over the government's controversial amendment to the Abortion Law, which was demanded by Agudat Israel as one of Its many conditions for entering Prime Minister Menahem Begin's coalition two years ago.

The first reading of the amend-ment has been sebeduled for this afternoon, but the vote will not be held today - at the demand of the Alignment which has about eight MKs abroad.

When the vote is eventually beld, perhaps next week, there will be trouble inside the coalition between the Aguda and the Liberal wing of the Likud, because of the eizeable number of Liberal backsilders expected to vanieh before the count is taken.

Aguda faction chairman Rabbi Shlomo Lorincz told The Jerusalem Post that the amendment - which will withdraw the facility to permit abortions on what are popularly called "eoclal grounds" — ehould bave come up soon after the coalition was formed. He said it had been postponed several timee.

Lorincz dismissed complaints by some Likud men that it was "untimely" to discuse the Abortions Law now because of the turmoll over the cabinet reshuffle and Ellon Moreh. In what sounded like a threat that the Aguda could easily rock Begin's coalition hoat if it so wished, Lorincz said: "The passage of the Abortion Law as promised would contribute to the stability of the coalition. Lorincz told The Post that those disadvantaged families who would not have recourse to a legal abortion once the law was amended would be able to get financial ald to bring up the extra child from "a multi-million-dollar fund which Agudat Yisrael plans to organize with the help of sympathizers abroad."

As things stand now, about half of the Liberal wing of the Likud say they will not support the amended Abortion Law. The last time the Liberals discueeed the issue, Finance Minister (and party boss) Ehrlich told the MKs: "It's a matter for each ons's personal conscience." Ehrlich said then that the promise to the Aguda to restrict the freedom of abortions was not contained in the body of the coalition agreement - as was the change in conscription of girls for military eervice - which was why it was never eubmitted for approval to the Liberal Party Central Committee.

was making a general reference u coalition parties, all of whom were making the cabinet reorganization taak unduly difficult. A Herut delegation saw Begin last night to press for Shamir's appointment. The delegation reported Begin as saying that he would "very much" like to see Shamir as his foreign minister, but that the situation is "complex and fraught with coalition considerations."

One quastion unanswered is why Begin has declined - at least for the present — to appoint Shamir to the Foreign Minietry. Begin himself seemed to confirm the speculation when he told newsmen that Shamir would be "a very good candidate." Shamir, too, seemed to expect to be offered the job. He told questioners that be would do everything he could to help the prime minister imple-ment the reshuffle. But Begin has besitated. One factor weighing in his mind, according to well-placed sources, is the ques-tion of the succession. By bringing in Shamir from the enforced inactivity of the speakership to the centre stars position of foreign minister, Begin would insvitably be boosting his chances of eventually succeeding to the Herut and Likud leadership. The premier apparently wants to think ong and hard before taking that step. The NRP Knesset faction came out yesterday in favour of a second deputy prime minister in order to create a joh for Ehrlich. It repeated its demand that Begin reshuffle his cabinet with all possible speed to make sure that the good will in the cabinet does not run out completely by the time be gets the job done.

Earlier yesterday, the Likud Knesset faction adopted a resolution calling on the prime minister to complete resbuffling his government "with utmost speed in order to halt the daily deterioration in the eituation." The faction also called on all coalition parties to good will and accept any decisions put forth by the prima minister in order to avert a cabinet crisis.

Jerusalem Post Beporter The Knesset Finance Committee was up in arms yesterday over an ettempt hy Energy Minister Yitzhak Moda'i to discuss a rise in electricity rates in the Knesset body before it had been discussed by the Ministerial Economic Committee.

Committee chairman Shlomo Lorincz (Agudat Yisrael) was warned in time by Industry, Trade and Tourism Minister Gideon Patt, and the surprised chairman announced as the committee meeting began that the electricity rates would not be discussed until the ministers bad considered them, according to accepted procedure. Moda'i's proposal was to increase the rates by about 44 per cent. This would include a rise of 28.3 agorot per kilowatt hour for all energy consumption, following the increase in fuel prices last week, and a rise of 30 agorot per kilowatt hour for all energy consumption to help defray the electric company's cumulative deficit, which is now about IL1.4b,

According to Moda'i's calculations, the rise in electricity cost will bring the consumer price index up another 1.5 per cent.

Instead of discussing the price hike, the Finance Committee beard a general outline of the company's state and the components of Its deficit.

COLOGNE (AP), - The deportation to Nari death camps of 25,000 French Jews in 1942 was recalled in court here yesterday, the third day in the trial of three former Gestapo officials in Nazl-occupied Paris.

"I gave it no thought at the time, hut today I think the same way you do," replied Ernst Heinrichsohn when asked by co-plaintiff Serge Klarsfeld of Parle why those deported had always been Jews. Heinrichsohn, 58. a lawyer and mayor of the small north Bavarian town of Buergstadt, said his part in: Paris was that of an office messenger and document hearer.

He stands trial with Kurt Lischka, his former boss and chief of the Gestapo sinotorious Jewish Departa ment in Paris, and Herbert Hagen; former destapoichief responsible for the regions along the French Atlantic coastline. -

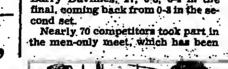

All thres are accused of baving been responsible for the deportation to death camps of 73,000 Jews from to death camps o wartime France. Heinrichsohn relterated that he ught the 73,000 Jews were sent to labour camps. "It was being said they (the victims) were being sent to work. Boots and tools were sent along with them," Heinrichsohn said. He admitted his testimony eppeared dubious nowadays; but that was how he thought at the time, be said.

Heinrichsohn repeatedly shrugged his shoulders, shook his head and said he could not remember whenever the prosecutor confronted him with documents from his wartime Paris office about the deportation of 25,000 Jews, mostly 16 to 50 year,olds rounded up to the violatty Antipation and to destruct a station of the section when Klarsfeld mentioned that the rail transports in August 1942 includ-ed 323 girls and 207 boys under the age of 16.

U.S. satellite could crash in Israel

TEL AVIV (Itim). - Pegasus 2, the U.S. space satellite due to return . to Earth next week, could crash in southern Israel, a NASA official told Galei Zahal, the army radio station, yesterday.

Bill Pomeroy of NASA's Washington headquarters told the radio's science magaaine programme that Pegasus was due to . re-enter the atmosphere on-November 4, on a flight path that would take it within an area $1 degrees north or south of the equator. "The satellite will pass over Israel, south of Tel Aviv," Pomeroy said.

Pegasus was sent into the atmosphere in 1965 and since then has sent back information on msteorites and their influence on space satellites long, 10-ton satellite will break up into some 25 pisces on re-entry. The fragments may weigh between 10 and 120 kilograms and will be scattered over a 200-km.-wide helt stretching for some 3,500 metres.

NASA officials think the 21-metre-

The chances of anyone being burt by a piece of Pegasus are smaller, say space officials, than was the case with Skylah, which returned to earth this summer.

Pegasus, unlike Skylah, cannot be regasus, unite sayian, cannot be controlled from Earth; the most space officials can do is monitor its progress and send a special alert when its final landing place becomes ohvious.

The sister satellites Pegasus 1 and 3 have already returned to Earth un-heralded, and barmlessly, without anyone being aware of where they fell.

Six-week strike ends at E. J'lem hotel

By IAN BLACK Jerusalem Post Reporter

The St. Georges Hotel in East Jerusalem will return to normal operation in the next few days following a six-wesk dispute between staff and management that ended in the dismissal of 20 of its 120 workers.

The strike, one of the longest in East Jerusalem or the West Bank. broke out on September 19 over wage and other demands by employees, some of whom are members of the East Jerusalem Union of Hotel and Restaurant Workers.

Throughout the etrike, which caused travel agents to cancel previous reservations, the management refused to negotiate with the union, which it said was illegal. Temporary workers kept botel services running on a skeleton basis.

Manager Faiz al-Qutub told The Jerusalem Post yesterday that he believed his employees were "in-

He said he believed these were the "same people" hehind a three-wesk strike that seriously weakened the East Jerusalem Electricity Company in July, which ended after the intervention of the Joint Jordanian-PLO committee in Amman. The manager denied that any such mediation had been involved in settiing the hotel strike. He said that most of the workers had come to realize that the management would not give way and deal with the union. Twenty "trouble-makers," he said, had been fired; and the others bad agreed to stop union activities.

Pomp, bloody circumstance greet Hua at London Tower

LONDON (AP). -- Chineae Premier Hua Guofeng gazed intently at Britain's crown jewela yesterday and had a piece of the country's bloody history outlined to him before heading into talks on trade and world affairs with Prime Minister United Jewish Appeal, I extend a most cordial welcome.

On behalf of the Jewish Agency Executive, I extend a cordial welcome to the members of the UJA 1980 President'e Mission.

You come to Israel during tha fiftieth enniversary yaer of the Jewish Agency. These fifty years are highlighted by the ective partnership of world Jewry in the esteblichment end the development of the State of Israel.

You will find thousande of newcomers living in Aliya Centraa and waiting for places of their own to move into.

You will find young couples unable to begin their joint lives - for leck of housing.

You will find large families for whom larger homes are es essential as air to breathe - and next to impossible to obtain.

Our hietonical tasks continue. The prospect of peace in the Middle East requires new answers to the many chellengee. Immigration hee increased, end we must be enebled to absorb the many thousands who come here to link their dectiny with Israel.

The pressures of history cell upon us to accelerate the development of the Negev in the south, and the Gelilee in the north.

All these await your dedication, love end enargy,

You will also find echiavement and anterprise end a naw political reelity, moving towards peace, while we will find in your presence, ee in your constant concern, strength that is no less important then your meterial aid.

That strength stems from Jewieh solidarity in feeling and action, solidarity which will ensure the future of our people.

> A.L. DULZIN Chairman of the Executive Jewish Agency for Israel

Mr, President:

DIJUW JES.

Some of the people listed on this page as participants in the Second Annual President's Mission have come to Israel meny times before. They come this time, as always, in a spirit of brotherhood end with a firm and enduring sense of commitment to the future of this land end its people. And they will, es elweys. return home enriched and invigorated, ready to share with their communities the gifts of special knowledge end insights they will receive on this mission:

Others will be receiving what le perheps an even greater gift; the incomparable joy of revelation which comes with e first visit to Israel. They ere perticularly fortunate thet they ere undertaking this initiel journey to the heartland of the Jewish people under your auspices. All of us, Mr. President - first-timers end "old-timers" alike - are honoured by your invitation.

We coma as fact-finders end as family. Yes. we look forwerd to learning the details and dimensions of the programmes we help support and sustein through our community campaigns, for that is part of our responsibility to our constituente. But wa anticipate even mora segerly our heart-to-haart encountere with the brothers and sisters of our extended family who support end sustain ue even more meaningfully.

We come with open hearts, open arms, open minds. To touch, to embrace, to understand. Touching, we will verify the lifeline which joins us with the peopla of Israel, Embracing, we will confirm the love end concern which flow along that lifeline. Understanding, we will return to our communities to fortify the campaigns which create and sustain that flow,

We know that we come at a time of the most complex chellenge and opportunity in Jewish life. The challenge, et oneand the same time, of meeting the costs of a possible peece while withstanding the erosion of an impossible infletion. The opportunity, at one and the same time, of ebsorbing the Jews of e new exodue into the mainstream of fraa Jewish life whila renewing the lives of those who have walted far too long for their absorption. It is a time when every major human priority in the Jewish world has converged to demand that we give the most end the best that is in us.

We are not dismayed by the megnitude of thet demend. It asks of us whet we have never echieved before in a peece-yeer campaign - but what we have known all elong is clearly possible for us.

And we are pleased and honoured, Mr. President, thet - es we begin our move toward what is possible in 1980 - you have brought us hare to meet with a people and e leadership which has so well and for so many yeers eccomplished so much thet seemed impossible.

"THE OPENING of V.I.P.'s newest branch, will enable Jerusalemites to participate fully in the growth of touriem between Israel and Egypt." saya Waiter Arbib, joint managing director of V.I.P. Travei.

The company ploneered tourism between the two countries last June, when the 46-ton yacht Gabriella. carrying the first Israell-born tourist to visit Egypt since the signing of the peace treaty. Ofra Gamel, made the historic journey between Tel Aviv Marina and Port Sald.

With the opening of the commercial air route between Tel Aviv and Cairo, expected to materialize in March, V.I.P. has already prepared a programme of low-cost package flights for the thousands of Israelis cagerly waiting to visit the Land of the Pyramide.

Also being planned are week-long tours for Israelis who cerved in the Allied forces in Egypt during World War II. Giyn Bowden, in charge of sales and marketing of V.I.P. says that although the package had not yet been marketed, hundreds of bookings had been made for the package, which will include a visit to El Alamein.

Meanwhile, V.I.P. commences low-cost flights to Egypt, via Cyprus, effective November 5 - with five nights in top class hotels on a bed and breakfast basis for (U.8.) $370, including all transfers.

The new V.I.P. Jerusalem office is managed by veteran travel expert Mclr Friedel, who hae been a licenccd tour operator for 30 years.

FOR THE first time in many years, new airline representations have been opened in Israei. Eastern Airlincs, the huge U.S. carrier, which opened in Tel Aviv, has appointed Arlch Ben Atar, a veteran travel expert, as its general eales manager.

This month saw the opening of the new offices of Aeromexico, also in Tel Aviv with the occasion marked by a "Mexican week" reception for the travel trade given by the Tei Avly Sheraton in co-operation with El Al. Appointed general sales agent for Acromexico is Jacques Rubins-tein, who has dealt in Mexico-Israel travei for many years. With Ei Al's suspension of its Mexico route, travellers from that country will be transported by Aeromexico to New York, or Paris and then, Ei Al to Tel Aviv.

financial loss to several airlines operating out of Israel. According to an El Al official, unlicenced travel agents have obtained the iow-fare tickets for their clients in what amounts to presentation of false documentation. Ei Al sources eay the airline has lost more than IL10m. in Instances of over-age adults travelling on youth or student fares. El Al says, the airline management had ordered a clean sweep of the "black market" in air tickets and that licenced agents would coon receive incentives from the airline, following the system initiated in the U.S. and elsewhere. Maanwhile, the Israel Travel Agents Association says it will take steps to eliminate any further possibility of iliegal reduced-fare tickets.

THE MINISTER of Tourism of the Republic of South Africa, Dr. the Honourable A.P. Treurnicht, has officially established the South African Tourist Corporation's fuli-time office in Tel Aviv. Dr. Treurnicht noted that South Africa is the first country to open an independent tourist office in Israel (other countries' tourism officce are represented by their national alrlines).

David Rosam. 39, an expert in sales and marketing, heads the office, the 17th of Satour's overseas representations.

COMMERCIAL aviation's pace-setter, Sir Freddie Laker, is ex-pocted to arrive in Israel, on November 6 for a two-day stay and thereby inaugurating a winter charter series for four UK operators.

Sir Freddie will be guest of honour at the King David hotel at a luncheon gathering of Israei's top tourism people organized by the Dan Hotela chain, which is hosting Sir Freddie's stay here. Sir Freddie is reportedly seriously contemplating operating his own regular charter service to Israel, beginning next year, and he is awaiting approval from UK civil aviation authorities for a route to Australia including a stopover in Israel.

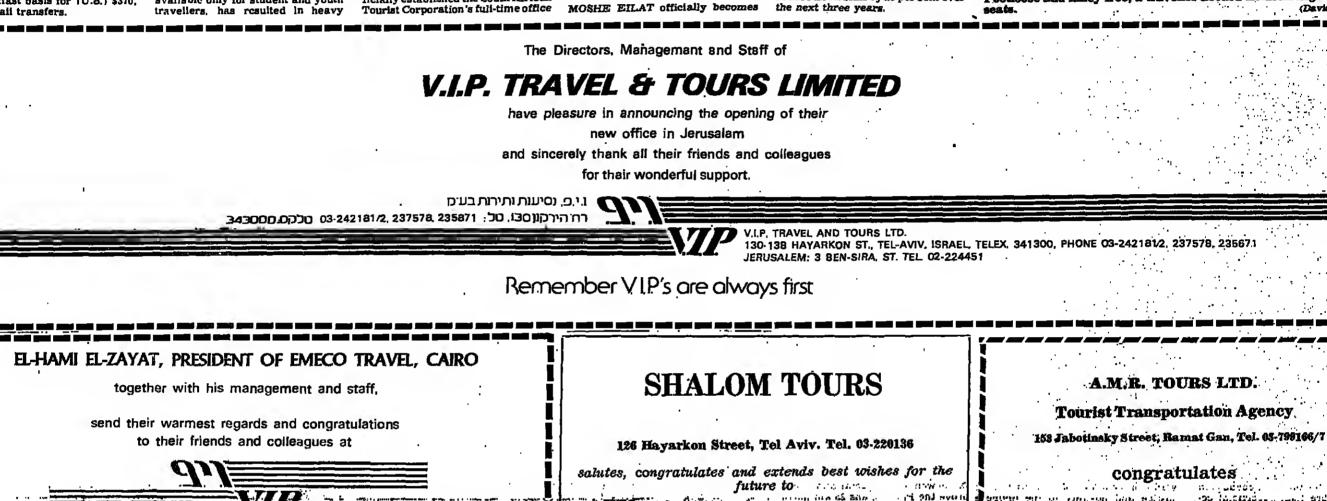

El Al's spokesman on December 1. Jerusalem-born, 41-year-oid Eilat is currently winding up his tour as El Al representative for New England. He has been in Boston for nearly five ycars, where he achieved unusual success. Eilat, who has been with Ei Al for 14 years, was assistant head of the company's public relatione department before taking up the U.S. post.

EL AL's route to Los Angeles, originally planned to open in April 1970, will be cheived temporarily as part of the airline's economy programme now going into affect. While the viability of additional routes are still being examined for possible frequency reductions, or closure it is undarstood from weilinformed sources in the Transport Ministry that there is a possibility that the airline will initiate a costcutting programme in ite U.S. representation. This possibly could include the closure of several branch offices auch as Pittsburg, St. Louis, Detroit and Cleveland. There is also a possibility that the ailrline's office in Manchester, England, may go by the board, as well as the ones in Nice and Milan.

The cuts are part of acting President Rafi Har-Lev's programme to reduce El Al staff by 25 per cent over the next three years.

Syria's secret Moslem rebels

FOCUS MIDDLE EAST

By A Special Correspondent DAMASCUS. - Is Syria heading for an Islamic revolution? Increasingly frequent acts of terror in the main cities of Syria are reported here with fatalistic - sometimas almost gleeful - murmurs over "the Arab telephone.'

This is the highly efficient grapevine by which nsws and gossip, unannounced or concealed by the government, become ganeral knowledge within 24 hours.

The elusiveness of the Islamic fundamentalists who have been assassinating members of the Alawite Moslem sect, the minority community which dominates the present Syrian regima of President Hafez Assad, is compounded by the attitude of the official media.

The public is told that the Moslem Brotherhood, a politico-religioue organization, is directing the wave of terror. Thay ara constantly reminded that the Brotharhood has received funds from Western sources, including the CIA, although not a word is said about Saudi Arabian finance which goes to small Islamic groups.

There is some evidence for government line in the fact that the massacre of some 60 Alawi military cadets in Aleppo last July came only a fortnight after the publication in Al-Daawa, the monthly journal of the Moslam Brotherhood in Egypt, of an article attacking the Syrlan regime for "waging war on Moslems.

But putting the blame on the Moslem Brotherhood is really a way of obscuring the whole problem. By branding the turmoil as entirely foreign-inspired, and specifically by the Camp David countries, Egypt. Israel and the U.S., the government seeks to legitimize the use of terror and intensified polics activity against the Moslem Brotberhood, without regard to the basic political reforms which are required to deal with the wideapread resentment that has crystallized in today'a sectarianism. Syrians know that the Moalem

Last April, Prime Minister Menahem Bcgin ordered a new policy of "preventive attacks" by Isracli ground troops and alr force against terrorist positions.

That offensive, conducted throughout most of last summer, succeeded in weakening the PLO's milltary strength. But the bombing and shelling failed to dislodge the Palestinians from their southernmost bases near the biblical seaport of Tyre.

Now the battered Palestinians sound interested in a truce. Arab diplomats say they hope Israel is willing to join in defusing the south - and they say they want the U.S. to pressure Israel into taking a chance on the peacekeeping ability of the U.N. and the Lebanese army instead of relying so heavily on Haddad'a

Haddad has said he will welcome Lebancse army units into the town of Marjayoun in his area - but he says he expects the troops to "help us... prevent the infiltration of terrorists." He is still fond of declaring that his ultimate objective is "to liberate all of Lebanon," from both the terrorists and the 30.000 Syrian troops stationed in the country.

The Lebanese government, too, presents a problem. The U.S. would like the Lebanese "to pick up the ball" and play a central role in any negotiations, a U.S. official said, but Prime Minister Salim Hoss, a Moelem, and Foreign Minister Fuad Butros, a Christian, disagree on how to approach the issue. Finally, there is the army, still struggling to its feet after its collapse in the 1976 clvil war, still the object of Christian and Moslem suspicions, still mostly un-tested. "Lebanon is an ailing body," sald one observer. "There are eo many doctors and each of them brings his own medicine. This body cannot be cured so quickly." (Washington Post News Service)

No smiles in welfare paradise

By JULIET PEARCE

KUWAIT. - A mutiny by Kuwait's conscript soldiers earlier this year lllustrated just how pampered are the people of this oil-rich nation.

The recruits complain of fauity airconditioning in their barracks, of overcrowding, of poor quality food and of being bullled by their sergeants. Not only did the government give in, but the conscripts also received hefty pay increases.

National service was instituted in Kuwait not so much to put teetb into the small although powerfully armed defence force but to give more muscle to the young generation, going increasingly flabby.

Kuwalt, sitting on one-eighth of the non-communist world's oll reserves, has been overly generous to its pop-ulation. Native Kuwaitis - 47 per cent of the population of 1.2 million - can expect the government to spend half-a-million dollars at pre-eent exchange ratee on each man, woman and child during their llfetime,

The benefits range from a free local telephone service to state-pald trips for specialised medical treatment abroad. Water from costly desalination plants is free and electricity is provided at minimal cost.

Students at Kuwalt University get free text books. Those studying at foreign universities — and this year there were more than 3,000 - have all their feee pald, receive monthiy allowances of $500 and a free trip every year to visit their families.

Kuwait can afford to be generous to its citizens. The state collects an annual income from its oil exports of close to $10 billion. Much is invested in foreign securities, and generous loans are made to developing countries. But a sizeable proportion stays at home, converted into welfare benefits.

For example, Kuwait is spending 14 per cent of the national budget on education - compared to 4 per cent in an average Weet European coun-

There is much to be done in education in this barren expanse of land. settled 200 yaars ago by the Bedouin tribe of Beni Khalid. Even today the illiteracy rate is close to 40 per cent. Every Kuwaiti is entitled to a job. Those who cannot find one in the private sector obtain state employment. Of the 117,000 state employees, 54 per cent are Kuwaltis, the others malniy Palestinlans. An estimated 25 per cent of state-employed Kuwaitis are lillterate. They serve coffee, sweep offices and push lift buttons - at generous wagea with no Income tax,

In 1949 the government, then a Britiah protectorate, had four doctors. Today it employs more than 1,-000 and there are about 200 in private practice. This makes a ratio of 12 physiclans for every 1,000 inhabitants, which is on a par with Western Europe.

Rubinger

The obvious question is whether the system functions. "Yes, denial care is free, but a dentist is likely to break your jaw," complained one bitter Palestinian.

"The telephones are free but a lot of the time they don't work." said another foreign resident,

Native Kuwaltis - those uoon whom most benefits are showered have much less complaint. Those who need land for houses or commercial ventures can purchase it from the government at nominal prices. Low-income families are given free housing. Every few months there is a ceremony at which members of the ruling Al-Sabah family hands over rows of neat houses to new owners.

Deaplie all this, Kuwalt is not Utopia. Its deaert has not bloomed. Its people rarely smile. (Ofns)

Jerusalem Post Reporter TEL AVIV. - Sir Marcus Sieff Yesterday did something which he claimed "no Israeii government has done for many years" -- he warned that unless immediate and vigorous steps were taken, unpopular as they might he, the economic bubble here would burst.

Sir Marcus, who is chairman of Marks & Spencer, the huge English department store chain, added that "many may think it is not the place for a Jew from the diaspora to comment in this way on your internsl problems. But as s long-time friend. I would prove false if I did not tell you truthfully shout my fears."

He was addressing the Angio-Israei Chamber of Commerce. and his speech evoked a thunderous ovation. After it dled down, Aharon Saharov, chsirmsn of the chamber. rose to thank him for "the tremendous courage it took to say what you did." Dr. Alec Leroer, of Tel Aviv, an associate of Sir Marcus', added that "I can't think of any one person who lives outside Israei who bas more right to speak openly than you have'

Sir Marcus was highly critics! of Israel's huge rate of inflation, its growing adverse balance of payments, and poor work productlyity. He recognized Isrsel's unique problems, such as security, but even taking these into account, he said: "I feel that many Israelis todsy enjoy too high a standard of living. This relstively high standard depends largely on money from abroad, whether in the form of loans, grants or charitable donstions. In short, the country is living nff kaiuko. Most countries seek financiai ald from abroad, and many waste it, but you here can least afford such waste." Runaway inflation was preventing many young cnuples from buying a home, and they were beginning tn seek their fortune abroad. They promise to come back in two or three years, but many just don't return

Sir Marcus said. israel suffers excessively from one of the modern world's most common discases - the wasteful growth of burcaucracy and poor productivity, the speaker warned."Your bureaucracy grows and grows. irrespective of the party in power. Yet nothing is being done about it. No country can afford excessive bureaucrscy -- Israel least of sil. Nevertheiess, Israei leads the free nations in the field of bureaucracy, as far as I can see.

'Once I thought the proper term for these buresucrats in Israel was - cight-zero-four. They come to work at 8 a.m., do zero work, and iesve at four. But after talking recently to one of your ministers, had to amend my viewpoint. Now I know the formula is eight-zero-two -- for they icave work at two p.m., without doing anything ali day," Sir Marcus said.

If this was not bad enough, the jobs of these unproductive people were guaranteed for life. And although they did nothing st ali, their purchasing power, like that of many members of the Histadrut, was shielded from the ravages of Inflation. They also contribute much to this inflation, because their salaries sre linked to the cost-of-living Index, and in some cases, these salaries rise faster than the rate of inflation. This situation cannot continue indefinitely," be warned.

Sir Marcus noted that while so many persons belonged to the "idlewith-full-pay category." the country was crying for workers, and was even talking of importing such workers from abroad.

The speaker sdmitted that the economic situation was not a new phenomenon. But in the past, he said, the country's leaders -Kaplan, Eshkoi, Sapir, Sharef and others - tackled the problems with energy and determination - if not always successfully. Inday, the problems were not even being attacked, he charged.

"I have no doubt that some of your political leaders have sensible plans on paper to improve the situation, but as far as I can see, few, if any of theac plans, are being implcmentca," he sald. "A government which has to its great credit the signing of the peace treaty with Egypt must tackle such vital economic problems," he added.

Sir Marcus agaln warned, this time more sterniy, that "you cannot" rely on more and more outside funds coming to your rescus. In fact, the opposite may be true." Outside financial support could become less, rather than more, as the Weslern world faces increasing economic difficulties and when, for other reasons, justified or not, sympathy and sup-port for Israei is declining. He noted that he had just visited the U.S. and he could personally confirm that support for Israel seemed to be on the decline. Earlier, Sir Marcus spoke about the relationship between Marks & Spencer and Israeli producers. "Although we seek British production as s first priority, we do all we can to help Israel in those areas where we have some expertise, and we have been doing this for 36 years."

At first, the buyers from England and the producers in Israel were on different sides of the fence, but lately they had become "partners," he explained. "Today we work with some 30 to 40 of Isrsel's leading manufacturers in the fields of textiles, processed foods and agricultural products, all of whose production compares with the best in the world. And I will go so far as to say that some is the hest in the world."

Around 1720 we encounter the first paper money inflation, in France. It was caused by financial manipulations by John Law, a Scotsman who enjoyed royal patronage. The manipulations were based on sbares in a company set up to exploit France's overseas possessions, and triggered off a wave of frantic speculation in the shares. Speculators made great fortunes and rushed to invest their paper in "inflation hedges" - land, gold; jewelry - driving prices skyhigh

Again, after the Revolution, the French govarnment issued honds assignate - which, as they multiplied, assumed the role of actual money. By 1975 their value had sunk to leas than 1/500 of the gold franc. Inflation followed the American Revolution, too, when the new republic resorted to printing money (which, Benjamin Franklin noted shrewdly, was but a form of taxation), so that the newly printed Con-

Joint Israel-Egypt tourism mooted

By HAIM SHAPIRO Jerusalem Post Reporter

An Egyptian tnurism official last week called for joint tourism promotion between Israel and his country. The Jerusalem Post learned yesterday.

The Egyptian official was speaking at one of two receptions tendered hy the Israel Government Tourist. Office and the country's tourism industry at the annual convention of ASTA (American Society of Travel Agents) in Munich. The eveots, billed as "King Solomon's Casis," were atlended by about half of the 7,000 delegates to the convention In view of the fact that this is one of the wurid's most prestiginus travel industry gatherings, with delegates fought over by the representatives of innumerable. tourist sites and enterprises, the large attendance at the receptions is considered very good: " considered very good. At the second of the two recen-tions, a member of the Egyptian delegation asked to address the gathering and expressed the win that the two countries sponsor a faint event at the coming ASTA conven-tion, to be beld in Manila in 1980.

Safe deposit key unlocks question of bank cartels

The deposit charged hy banks for the two keys they issue to renters nf safe-deposit boxes was raised in a parilamentary question last week by

He noted that in addition to the annual rental fee the banks demand a deposit for the keys, ranging from Shilansky complained that when the rental is terminated and the keys returned, which may be years after the deposit was paid, the bank returns only the nnminal deposit, withnut interest or linkage.

that the decision to rent a safedeposit box was nne freeiy made by the renter, whn must regard the un-Unked deposit as part of the price. But Ehrlinb conceded, in reply to Sbilansky's supplementary questinn, that an element of cartellization might be invnived, since all hanks with safe-deposit boxes fallow the

Since cartel agreements are liiegal, Ehrlich promised to look into the matter and take fegal actinn, if warranted.

Commercial bank shares out to beat index

TEL AVIV. - The continuous upward movement of commercial bank shares is the surest indicator that the banking community is doing its best to have its shares, show a 'real return" when the current year comee to an end. By a "real return" is meant that an investment in the shares of the banks will yield more than the annual rise in the cost-of-living and the second

In view of the expected 100 per cent rise in ... the index in 1979, it will take some muscie flexing for the bank chares to beat the index. However, the current performance of these shares is ample proof that the banks are do-ing their utmost to make this bappen.

The IDB shares are appreciating at a rate of 3.5 per cent a week. Leumi is moving up at a three per cent weekly rate and Hapoalim at . 2.5 per cent.

While this performance is admirable and certainly satisfying to investors in bank ahares. it can only be discouraging to prospective investors in other areas of the equity market.

shares excepted. IDB was ahead hy 4 and Yesterday's market action was ample proof of the above trend. The share market put in a mixed price performance, banking Union rose by a similar amount. Leumi and Hapoalim were ahead by 3 points aplece. General Bank rose by 2, while FIBI and Mizrahi gained one point each.

Index-linked bonds were generally half a per cent lower, since there appears to be some switching out of index-linked bonds into bank shares. More than IL210m. worth of bonds were traded yesterday.

With the exception of land development and real estate issues, which moved lower, other groups of shares were mixed.

Among mortgage bank shares Carmel (R) was "sellers only." while the Tefabot group declined to 4 per cent. Gaining chares were generally ahead by about one per cent Among insurance stocks Yardenia IL1 rose by 4.6 per ceni, but Securitas was down by 5.3 per cent. On balance, other shares showed up with small gains.

Utilities and service equities were down by as much as 3 per cent.

Land development and real estate shares were lower. Ispro was "seliers only" and Azorim was down by 5.1 per cent. Others declined by a more moderate rate. Industrials were mixed. Urdan ILI was down by nearly 5 per cent and Fertilizers was clipped for 5 per cent loss. A number of options fell quite sharply. Ata 3 options lost six per cent. Lodzia 2 options were down by near-ly 13 per cent, while Haifa Chemicala options took a drop of 6.3 per cent. Israei Petrochemical options feli by 6.6 per cent.

Trading was also mixed in the investment company sbare group. Investment of Paz (R) rose by 16. to 333, reflecting again of 5.1 per cent. Koor Investments continued its strong performance and rose by 123 points, to 3,222. Amissar options lost 6.2 per cent. Landeco was a 6.1 per cent loser. Clai Real Estate and Clal Investments were unchanged, while Clal Industries eked out a 3-point gain,

On behalf of the Falashas

THE FALASHAS in Israel announced this week that they plan to demonstrate in protest against the Government's failure to engage in any action to rescue their endangered community in Ethiopia. They termed the government's failure an expression of 'racism.'

While this may be an overstatement, the Falashas' bitternass is certainly uoderstandable.

Israel and the world Jewish community has devoted massive energy and resources on behalf of Soviet Jewry; the government has mounted rescue operations on behalf of the Vietnamese boat people and Cambodian refugees. But the Falashas of Ethiopia, who unlike the Asian refugees are Jews, and unlike the 70 to 80 per cent of drop-out Soviet Jews want to come to Israel, have been neglacted. And that neglect must be considared mortal, for the Falashaa of Ethiopia, who today number only about 20,000, face total physical extinction.

The tale of neglect is long. It certainly cannot be placed soiely at the hands of Mr. Begin's Government. But It is nevertheless true that this government is continuing this neglect, despite the dangers facing the Falashas.

The source of that neglect derives historically from the narrow dogmatism and bigotry expressed on this issue by key orthodox functionarles located primarily in the National Religious Party.

These officials did not and do not accept the Falashas as Jews. But their position has historically been conteated by other orthodox opinion, including Chief Rabbi Avraham Kook, and, in this generation, Sephardic Chief Rabbl Ovadia Yosef.

But even the halachic question is irrelevant for the Falashas, as a matter of record, are prepared to undergo conversion in Israel to dispel any doubt. Still nothing has been done to save them, even as their suffering in Ethiopia mounts.

Certainly the fact that these people consider themselves to be Jews, educata themaelves as Jewa, have been recognized as Jews by distinguished rabbls, and want nothing more than to immigrate to Israel to live as Jews should not be the reason why Israel and the Jewish people ignore their plight and condemn them to destruction.

What is needed is a concerted rescue effort embracing the government and the major world Jewish organizations for history will neither forget nor forgive anything less.

Sharing the price burden

YERUHAM MESHEL of the Histadrut is mistaken if he thinks that by increasing the cost-of-living allowance to 100 per cent instead of seventy or 80 per cent, and adjusting it every three months instead of every six months, he will immunise the working man to the impact of price inflation.

What good is it to receive a wage rise on pay-day if prices shoot up during the following weeks by the same amount again? If too much money is chasing too few goods, it does not matter how often wages are adjusted, prices will always be ahead.

The remedy is to stop prices from rocketing. This can be done in one way only, by slashing Government expenditure. Professor Berglas gave as his reason for resigning last week from heading the Treasury's Budget Division that the ministers take no notice of budget cuts; and that is the long and the short

The national balance

CHAIM HERZOG is disturbed by the doubts being expressed about Israel's ability to function as a democracy.

EVIL WINDS are blowing and they are beginning to have a serious effect on our society. Our enemics. both near and far, see what is happening and draw their own conclusions.

As a people and as individuals, we tend to move rapidly from one extreme to another, and have a tendency at times to lose both our balance and our national sense of proporilon. Not that there isn't pienty of reason for the feeling of frustration and gloom that is pervading our society today.

One cannot live in a regime where inflation has reached the terrifying proportions we are experiencing in Israel without being alarmed at the poesible implications, economic, political, and above all social. One cannot view the increasing violence. the apparent inability to enforce the law, the moral deterioration, the vandaliem and the destruction of our beautiful heritage in public places. the lack of elementary clvilized behavlour between human beings. without being very concerned and, indeed alarmed. But because the resulting national plcture lacks proportion, a national spirit is emerging that augurs III for our sociely.

Of late, voices have been raised expressing doubt as to the cultability of the democratic system for Israel and indicating that Israelie are Incapable of living and functioning as a people in a democratic framework. Only a few days ago, we heard the unbelievable when a representative of Gush Emunim assorted in a television interview that if they cannot have their way, it may be better to forgo the benefits of democracy. When an individual makes remarks like that one can only exprees regret and put it down to a lendency to an extreme form of expression which la characteriatic of part of our society. But when distressing ideas such as these are suddenly reflected in the press, when to such centiments is added the phenomenon of pressure groups that proclaim by deed and implication that they regard the public with disdain, it is time to worry about the luture of our society and our people.

READERS' LETTERS

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post

Upon first reading, the half page you allocated to Rabbi Simon A. Dolgio nasty attack on a very substantial part of the world's Jewish popula-

Sir . - Subtlety can be misleading.

plc, bccause they are of the opinion that the population in general understands nothing and that they alone are inspired with Messianle wisdom and the ability to distinguish between good and bad. ll one adds to all this that there ie no precedent in history of a country failing to control runawsy inflation snd continuing to operate as a democracy, the dangers facing our soclety muet be evident.

IT IS UNNECESSARY to explain to the Isracli public the importance of democracy. Without such a basie. our national independence would have no real meaning. That is why it is so disturbing to note that this new phenomenon, doubts as whether the democratic system is appropriate to our society, is not a function of political bellef but of frustration and a feeling of hopelessness. The matter becomes doubly serious when the doubts receive practical expression in the actions of people with by moulders of public opinion and members of the Kneeset, including those who have aspirations to leadership.

We dare not ignore developments which reflect a rejection of the right of the majority to decide. This includee actions which endesvour to dictate political decisions by means ol faits accomplis that contravene the laws of the country and the orders of the government, issued by virtue of an authority voted for by a majority of the electorate. It in-cludge, too, actions in labour disputes declared in defiance of the Histadrut, which was chosen by the country's workers to represent them and to protect their interests.

One is often constrained to ask how the strikers themselves really feel about these stoppages, and what they would have decided had they been given the elementary democratic right to express their views in a secret ballot. The abeence of such a volce seems to me a reflection of the lack of regard that ahop stewards and worke committees armed forces and at most of the peo-EVERYBODY sees things in the light of his or her own problems. In face of the apparent contempt for the sacred principles of democracy it behoves us to pause for a moment to take account of the sltuatioo, and to realize how rapidly we are rushing downhill towards hitherio undreamt of dangers. The national reeponsibility for this situation - indeed for every sltuation in the country, good or bad lics, by the very nature of things, with the government. But it seems to me that the media have had no small share in creating the atmosphere I have described. William Shirer, In his book on the fall of the Third French Republic, describes the central part the French press played in the cumulative erosion of the will of the French people to fight and to defend itself. It goes without saying that the media must investigate. criticize and describe things as they are; but they also have a responsibility to depict things in a fair and balanced manner.

THIS COUNTRY is replete with positive events and phenomena, if one only looks for them, and they are there for all to see, provided we rid ourselvee of the spreading plague of cynlcism.

A few days ago, at a ceremony in which the President acknowledged the work of volunteers, we saw some wonderful people who represent many more like themselves, whose work never warrants any mention in the media, but who neverthelese continue to do good acts and to belp their fellow-men without fanfare and with a great deal of sacrifice.

Did not their atories temper, even to a small degree, the frustration and bitterness created by the dally evidence of a deterioration in the quality of life in our society?

These positive phenomena exist. just as there exists a basically strong and healthy economic infrastructure which has grown up over the past 30 ycars, and which will bring our exports up to somewhere between $8-

Something great and impressive has been created in this country. We must protect it, and not allow feelings of frustration and anger, brought about by what, in terms of our history, is but a passing phase, to affect the basis of our political regime and what we bave luberited. Let us not make the mistake of throwing away the baby with the

And, yes, a little more faith in ourselves would help.

LAMENT FOR "ARIEL"

To the Editor of The Jerusalem Post Sir. - It is with great sorrow and amazement that we received news about the Foreign Ministry'e decision to cease publication of "Ariel." the world continue to send their students to study and learn from our agricultural achievements. We learned recently of the activation of the Chariot tank in the IDF. Fewer than 10 countries in the world build a tank like that, or a fighter plane like the Kfir, with all they represent In technological and industrial ability. Recently, I read the articles by Musea Sabry, editor of the Daily "Al bath-water. Akhbar," and Annis Mansour, editor of the weekly "October," and other Egyptian correspondents about their visit to Haifa, with President Sadat.

Political and economic situatioos

What about wages and the cost-of-living allowance? Responsible policies are needed here too, because if wages are kept too high, the requisite budget cuts (if made) will cause upemployment. The Histadrut strives to prevent the living standards of employed persons from being eroded by inflation, and rightly so. It is bad that excessive money is being pumped into circulation. If that happens nevertheless, the trade union movement has every justification for making sure that it does not flow into the pockets of profiteers, at the expense of the wage-earners.

But there is another and quite separate force engendering price inflat:o:. at the moment: OPEC. Every time the price of oil imports goes up, living standards in Israel 1 and in all other oll-importing countries too) have to take a dive.

The Histadrut can reasonably demand that if such an economy is necessary, all sectors of soclety should share in the sacrifice; which brings us back to the naed for trimming Government expenditure.

The coat of living allowance should indeed be raised to 100 per cent - but with one proviso, that it compensate only for inflation deriving from domestic monetary policies. The index must exclude, for purposes of calculating the allowance, increase in the price of imported gooda and services, because they represent an added cost to the economy, not an added profit to the businessman.

The Government could reasonably expect such a conceasion from the Histadrut, if it undertakes for its part to eliminate that segment of tha inflationary tumour that does not enaue from increaacs in the price of imports. The Histadrut cannot be expected to help neutralize the impact of inflation, unless the Government doea its job.

SONGS like "Halelujah" and "Hevenu Shalom Aleichem" and eingers like Yehoram Gaon. Hava Alberstein and Arlk Einstein, will soon be heard on Egyptian Radio. Broadcasting Authority directorgeneral Yosef Lapid has sent 12 records, whose themes are peace, to reflecting, the conclusion one is forced to le that Rabbl Dolgin has written a very clever defense of Conservative Judaism.

However, upon re-reading aod

The rock upon which his lengthy structure is built is Maimonides. And, during his lifetime, the Rambam (Maimonideal was viewed very much as the Conservative thrust is viewed by come elements in the Orthodox eetablishment today. In fact, he and hle thought were excommunicated in the very same way.

Nor ia this all. Among the varieties of Orthodoxy which Rabbi Dolgin tells us are of course totally acceptable, the first menlioned is Hassidism. And, two centuries ago, was the turn of Hassidim and Hassidism to be excommunicated by the very aame kind of official leadership which did this to the Rambam in his day and is playing at doing it to us in our day.

ANIMAL SACRIFICE

To the Editor of The Jerusaiem Post Sir, - The recent letters of the SPCA (October 7) and Ms. Gordon (October 23) confuee crucity to animals with animal sacrifice.

Cruelty to animals le prohibited by the same Jewieh tradition that prays dally for the restoration of the Temple and its animal sacrifices. Wanton killing of animale for pleasure is prohibited and few Jews hunt to this day, despite the social status of thie crucl sport in what is called high society in countries auch as England.

On the other hand, most of the civilized world accepts the Biblical viewpoint that man is superior in kind, not just degrse, to life forms of plants and animals, which arc to serve his genuine needs. Our food, clothing, leather products, etc. come from taking the lives of plants and animals. Somehow, as testified by our tradition, the Temple sacrificial order was able lo change and purge the human personality, to concretize the locling that one does not own his own llfc but must use it responsibly.

Ould do credit to the Inquisition After all, an effective defence of Conservatism is no more than what one should expect from a rabbi whose major career was in the United States, where he saw the vibrancy of trends of Judaism other than those whose rubric is Orihodox and eurely realized what a large portion of the American Jewieh population would no longer be functionally Jewish, without such an alternative, Similarly, as the Rabbl of Ramot Eshkol, he must be heartened by the vibrancy of the neighbouring non-Orthodox synagogue on French Hill, succeesfully involving such a great many familles who are simply not reachable by today's official Orthodoxy.

Rabbl Dolgin, your friendship is indeed appreciated. RABBI JOSEPH HECKELMAN and perhaps to serve as catharsis for the inherent aggressive aspects of the personality. The loss of some animal lives to achieve these goals is far nobler than contemporary secular animal sacrifice for the great goals of hamburgers and wallcts. While kupparot do not have the great significance, power, and halachle authority of Temple sacrifices (indeed great rabbls such as the Ramban, Yosef Caro and Rashba condemned the rite as heathenl, many rabbis and communities have had it as an integral part of their soclo-religious gestnit for about a thousand years; if these communities aeem to display much more kindnese and mutual help to humans than typical eecular communities which worry about animal welfare, so be it! In any event, were it not for human use of animals, the animals would not live at all, as no one would bother to breed and raise them!

SELF-DETERMINATION

However, may I perbaps add to the eum of Mr. Kohansky's knowledge by taking friendly objection to his recent comments on Arthur Miller? In speaking of the great current euccees of the revival of "Death of a Salesman," he stated that Miller had not writlen a play in 20 years. He wrotc "After the Fall" around 1863 or 1964, and "The Price" in the early 70s. Neither was an enormous critical or popular favourite, but both enjoyed reepectable runs. It is true that Miller has produced little in 20 years - probably because he has nothing more to say.

I'll assume that Mr. Kohansky is considerably younger than I am let us say in his thirtiea - which is the probable reason for his lack of perspective where "Death of a Salesman" is concerned. This play emerged around 1948, when the great wave of postwar American playwrights was finding its voice with a new language: Tennessee Williams ("Streetcar Named Desire") and William Inge ("Come Back, Little Sheba," "Bus Stop," "Plenic").

Miller's treatment of a career aalesman whose illucions were fading was, and remains, as fine a sample of the puncturing of the American dream as anything you'll encounter. This stande as Miller's moguum opus. a classic in the best sense. What If It is 30 years old and Miller never matched or surpassed it? And how many playwrights bas Mr. Kohansky himself been bringing to task of late because they are saying nothing new?

. MORRIS SPRINGER Beershcba.

Mendel Kohanaky comments: I greatly appreciate Dr. Springer's friendly objections and comments on my notes on Arthur Miller and his 'Dcath of a Saleeman.'

I regret the chronological error, my only excuse being — If it is an ex-cuse at all — that I wrote the article in a hotel room in Doblin, with no access to the reference booka I keep handy in my study at home.

I do not know whether I should be hurt or flattered by Dr. Springer's assumption that I am a young man. Does my writing appear to him im-mature, or full of youthful vigour? Without going into details, I wish to inform him that I saw the original Broadway production of "Death of a Salesman" exactly 30 years ago, and I was not sitting on my mother's lap.

DAMAGING POLICY

To the Editor of The Jerusaiem Post reflected in every issue of ".iriel" 'Ariel' is shining evidence that the 'opera in Afula'' is not a hoax. Sir. — It is unfortunate that so few of our Israell friends seem to comprehend how damaging their promotion of settlement of privately-owned Arab lands has been to the Israeli cause. This policy has alienated many conscientious Americans, and forced us to see the Middle East conflict for the lirst time from the perspective of the displaced Arab refugecs.

Like many other young Americans, I find the Israell settlement policy to be a shameful act of inhumane aggression by a people who should know, better than most, the long-term cost of a conqueror's builying oppression. I urge you to discontinue the settlement of former Arab lands and to return those lands already ectiled to their legal owners. To continue the settlement pollcy is only to make short-term gains at far, far greater long-term losses.
